Salvation "Kettles" Tell Us Christmas Is Surely Here

Christmas in many lands connotes the sound of bells on street corners, and the ringing of coins as they drop into the Salvation Army kettles. Just now in the Southland in many cities and towns are to be seen Salvation lassies presiding over the kettles and smiling thanks at the passer-by. For Christmas is near at hand and there are many who will be without a Christmas dinner unless the kettles are filled. "Keep the kettles full" is a good slogan for the Yule season. It is planned to give a dinner for thousands of homes in Southern California on Christmas day, a custom which has been in vogue in Salvation circles for many years. Investigations of cases in need are being made so that no duplication will be possible. Every home where there are hungry children, or old people, or those who are ill and out of work, will be cared for at the Yule season with a good dinner. This dinner will have everything a good Christmas dinner requires from a substantial roast to the trimmings that go therewith. In all communities where the kettles are not in vogue, the dinner will be provided from another fund. But where the kettles are on the streets the Salvation Army must depend on the good will of the people to provide means to pay for the dinners. The Home League in the various corps will have charge of packing the baskets, which will be delivered, or called for the day before Christmas.

Bermuda Grass Cut by Motor Renovator

A number of people who have been watching the motor-driven lawn renovator used by the City of Torrance on the parks, will be glad to learn that they can obtain this same service for their private lawns through Steve's Nursery, Figueroa avenue between Carson and Amelia, in Keystone. Steve Bartocko, proprietor of Steve's Nursery, has purchased one of these motor-driven renovators and is taking orders for cutting the Bermuda grass out of lawns, re-fertilizing and re-seeding them. Steve's Nursery also has a complete line of plants and shrubs and does complete landscaping work.

AN UNUSUAL PRESIDENTIAL AUTOGRAPH

President Hoover's autograph of a memorandum sheet upon which he had scribbled strange triangles, circles, parallelograms and similar patterns during an interview, which is now in the possession of Thomas F. Madigan of New York, who believes it to be one of the most unusual autographs ever to come from the White House.

WOULD STOP ENLARGEMENT SEWER FARM

Harbor District Cities Object To Enlarging Plant At Harbor City

The harbor area is becoming exercised over the plans, said to be under way in Los Angeles, to enlarge the present sewer farm north of Wilmington and east of Harbor City, now the temporary disposal plant for the Metropolitan sewer system, it was revealed at a recent meeting at Lomita attended by representatives of the Wilmington, Harbor City and Lomita Chambers of Commerce.

While no decision was reached, the delegations were agreed in their opposition to the enlargement of this farm and emphatic in their desire to secure elimination of the present farm as soon as possible.

When George E. Preston, president of the Harbor City Chamber of Commerce, made the effort to lead the meeting into an endorsement of a plan to shunt the Metropolitan sewer district disposal to the Hyperion plant, or to provide Hyperion disposal for the harbor district, the other delegations did not follow him. Preston voiced his opposition to the White Point outfall plan and insisted that Hyperion disposal would solve the problem.

In this respect Preston was speaking as an individual, inasmuch as his Chamber has taken no action, and it was said today that the Harbor City Chamber might favor the White Point site despite the opposition of Mr. Preston. E. M. Mosher, Lomita publisher, spoke in opposition to the Hyperion disposal idea and in favor of White Point disposal.

Among those attending the meeting were J. E. Wightman, secretary, and J. P. Pickett, a director, of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce; George E. Preston, president, and C. F. King, secretary of the Harbor City Chamber of Commerce; and Edward Sledboham, president; Carl Stanku, secretary, and L. M. McClary and J. W. Wells, directors, of the Lomita Chamber of Commerce. San Pedro, which is said to be in favor of enlarging the sewage disposal plant north of Wilmington, was not present.

BUILDING UP FOR NOVEMBER IN TORRANCE

Real Estate Transfers Show Decrease Over October

Real estate activity throughout Los Angeles county showed a slight general decline in November, in comparison with the preceding month, according to the California Title Insurance company. Only thirteen of the 42 cities embraced in this survey showed an increase in the volume of November transfers over those for October.

Taking the activity for the first ten months of the year as a normal basis of comparison, ten cities were in the exceptionally active class, and eleven could be termed fairly active as the result of November's realty transfers. La Verne, Claremont, Signal Hill and Glendora showed the greatest activity. Sixteen deeds, 5 mortgages and 16 trust deeds were filed last month affecting Torrance real property, compared with 22 deeds, 5 mortgages and 16 trust deeds for October, placing the local real estate market in the quiet class.

The realty market in the four metropolitan cities of the county, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena and Glendale, was fairly active in November in comparison with the first ten months of the year. Glendale and Pasadena had a slight advantage over the two bigger cities in November activity. No new subdivisions were filed last month on Torrance property, although three new tracts, containing a total of 530 lots in the Hollywood Riviera, have been opened to the real estate investor in Torrance. Twelve new subdivisions, containing a total of 560 lots, were opened to the public in Los Angeles county during November, bringing the total number of new tracts filed so far this year in the county up to 235, embracing 20,784 parcels of land. Los Angeles city proper witnessed
